Vera Kessels is a native of the Netherlands and became a US Citizen in March, 2014. Growing up in a family of show jumpers, Vera eventually found that her passion was for dressage. Vera has a busy teaching and training business and has developed numerous horses to the Grand Prix level. Vera moved to the United States in 1995 after working for ten years at a large training and sales barn in Holland. She brought her Grand Prix horse Dotato to the US and initially worked as a trainer for Nan Sexton. Eventually she started her own business and things developed from there.

Vera is a gifted teacher who brings new insights to the basics of dressage. She works with riders and horses at all levels. Advance payment per 45-minute lesson is required to hold your spot. Call Carol Heckman at 716-725-3639 for details or email ceheckman@gmail.com. These clinics usually sell out so do not delay. Limited stalls are available.

Auditors are welcome. The auditing fee is $25 per day, with NEDA and WYNDA members receiving a discounted fee of $20 per day. We typically start at 9:00 a.m, but check with Carol the week of the clinic to confirm the start time.
